

Veterans: Finding a job is easier at WorkSource.

WorkSource helps thousands of veterans and transitioning military members each year.

As a veteran, you get priority access to WorkSource services. This includes referrals to jobs listed with WorkSource and other employment services.

WorkSource offers veterans and eligible spouses:

- Job listings, job leads and hiring events.
- Resume, application and interviewing assistance.
- Use of computers, copiers and phones for job search.
- Skill assessments and referrals to training resources.

Identify yourself as a veteran

On most days, we have more than 100,000 jobs listed on our employment website at WorkSourceWA.com.

In support of Washington's veterans-preference law, you can post your resume and flag yourself as a veteran to make it easier for employers to find you.

Also, you can search for job openings with employers who give veterans priority over other applicants. It's just one example of how WorkSource can help you get back to work faster.

You've got a friend

WorkSource has specialists whose sole job is to help military veterans with disabilities and other employment barriers. They'll assess your skills and interests and put together an employment plan that's right for you.

These specialists are veterans, too. They understand your situation and they're in close touch with veterans' organizations and resources that can help you.

Connect with WorkSource veteran resources

Select the Resources tab on WorkSource.WA.com to:

- Explore benefits and services for veterans.
- Use the locator to find your nearest WorkSource center.
